Kitchens for Good | Cooking to Make a Change

Kitchens for Good, a non-profit organization took over the catering contract at the Jacobs Center for Neighborhood Innovation on September 2015, and they've made it their home ever since. The organization's mission is to break the cycle of food waste and hunger through programs in workforce training, healthy food production, and social enterprise. Programs aim to provide culinary training and job placement for at-risk youth and previously incarcerated individuals as well as reduce food waste by rescuing fruits and vegetables that are cosmetically imperfect. They also provide healthy meals for Senior citizens at the Encinitas Senior Center, and cater events held at the Jacobs Center.

Councilmember Cole took a tour with the Kitchens for Good staff to learn about the programs offered by the organization. She met the students from the culinary training class and tasted a meal prepared for her upon her arrival.

"Kitchens for Good is proud to be a part of District 4," said Chuck Samuelson, the Founder and President for Kitchens for Good. "We're working hard to become the first choice for Catering and events for our community while creating jobs and training students to succeed in the Hospitality Industry."
